

Coal Ash Spills

The Tennessee Valley and Dan River coal ash spills are the two main publicized events in U.S. that got the attention of the public, environmentalists, news media and the government. Both troubles are continuing to draw attention to ash storage in ponds and unlined landfills. The 2014 Dan River spill near Eden, North Carolina got more attention in the press, as shown below. This pond ash can be used in Ash-Composites, but not in concrete.

Disasters Created by Breach of Ash Ponds

2014 Crisis in North Carolina

Ash Pond in Eden Breached and Spilled into to Dan River

